

THE UNIVERSITY OF MELBOURNE

Physics > Optics

“

After completing my Masters degree at Bharathidasan University in India, I was interested in a new challenge - working in a very different cultural and research environment. I decided to come to Melbourne to pursue my interest in optics.

My PhD involves studying the coherence properties of light to improve the way we image biological specimens. The project has practical applications in other fields, notably in medical and bioscience.

”

Celine Aruldoss
PhD in the Optics group